

History of Architecture in South Korea

Jeong WJ*

Department of Architectural Engineering, Sejong University, South Korea

*Correspondence to: Jae Weon Jeong, Department of Architectural Engineering, Sejong University, South Korea, E-mail: jjwarc@hanyang.ac.kr

Received date: January 08, 2021; Accepted date: January 22, 2021; Published date: January 29, 2021

Citation: Jeong WJ (2021) History of Architecture in South Korea. J Archit Eng Tech. 10.e106.

Copyright: © 2021 Jeong WJ. This is an open-access article distributed under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution License, which permits unrestricted use, distribution, and reproduction in any medium, provided the original author and source are credited.

Editorial

Sebitseom also known as Sebit islets, are artificial islands in the Han River, Seoul, South Korea. It was built at the suggestion of Kim Eun-sung (citizen of Seoul City) in 2006. Seoul City made this island by Build-Transfer-Operate (BTO). It has 3 islands: Gavit, Chavit, and Solvit. Yevit is part of Sebitseom, but is not an island itself, but rather, it's an on-land multimedia art gallery complementing the three floating islands.

Sebitseom, covering a combined space of ten,421m² (Gavit: four,881m², Chavit: 3,477m², Solvit: 1,271m², Yevit: 792m²), was set to open as a non-public equity syndicate in September 2011 containing convention halls and performance and show areas, beside business areas. However thanks to social control conflicts, the set up was indefinitely delayed.

In Gregorian calendar month 2009, however, roughly $86 million (USD) were endowed into Sebitseom to make the lobbies, decks, and rooftops of every island. As of could 2011, forty seventh of Some Sevit is in hand by Hyosung Group; 100 percent is in hand by Jinheung Company, Associate in Nursing affiliate of Hyosung Group; and twenty ninth is in hand by SH Construction.

ome Sevit has been managed and operated by a producing firm named CR101. Monthly expenses on repairs and rentals reach around $970,000 (USD) or AN annual expense of roughly $11.6 million. The projected expenses is calculable to be over $268 million (unadjusted for inflation) throughout following twenty five years.

he luxury whole Fendi control a fashion show on day, 2011, unveiling its Fall and Winter assortment, amidst serious protests from animal rights activists. once it absolutely was reported that the show would specialize in fur things, the Seoul government demanded fur to be excluded from the show in response to protests from anti-fur activists concerning this use of a public venue.

In response to government demands, Fendi cited the dearth of your time left till the show (there were solely weeks left before the show) and therefore the time and cash that they had already spent in preparation. In response to the protest, however, Fendi determined to diminish the show's specialize in fur by introducing a larger style of things, like shoes, bags, and different accessories. Earlier within the year, a well-liked SBS TV show.

Seoul, being one of the most densely populated cities in the world, is undergoing multiple revitalizations of unused urban spaces in order to create places of rest, recreation and culture among an extremely active city.